

Monthly Organizing Special

Halloween is only 4 days away which means Thanksgiving and Christmas are right around the corner. As I drive through my neighborhood and see all of the decorations hung, I wonder what happens to them after Halloween. Do they go in the trash or get thrown in the garage in a pile? As I organize homes, I often find random holiday decorations stashed in a closet, under a bed or some other random place. It's time to stop the madness and get a plan and place together for the holiday decorations which is why my special this month is on organizing holiday decorations. If you need help with this, we are offering a 20% discount during the month of November.

Now for your holiday decorating tip:

Take a picture of your decorations before you take them down. Next year, you'll pull up the picture (that you have in a folder on the computer labeled "holiday decorations") and even your kids can do the decorating. I have lots of seasonal decorations (you finally found my weakness) and I have photos of the living room and kitchen for each season. As the season changes, we pull out the decorations and the kids have fun helping me find each item and placing them where they belong. Of course if inspiration hits you, feel free to improvise but if the inspiration doesn't hit, that's ok too. Get those decorations organized and you'll enjoy the holidays more.
