

I Know Where My Medical Records Are, Do You?

Last night I put together my Jakoter Health Organizer. My medical records were together before- sort of. Of course, every time I referred one of my doctors to someone, I was flipping through my business card rolodex trying to find the number. This organizer has a place for all your doctor business cards. Smart, I know! It also has a place to keep hospital and surgery histories, test results, letters from your doctors, resources and even directions to your doctors offices. Keeping all the medical stuff together is pretty logical, after all!

For the average person, this Health Organizer might not be necessary. But, if you have a medical history and multiple doctors to keep track of, this organizer could be a major time and stress saver. It's hard to put a value on peace of mind.
